INTRODUCTION

In Malaysia, the two main legal references for OSH are the Factories and Machinery Act 1967 and the Occupational Safety and Health Act 1994. The implementation and application of the Acts may differ between organization due to the different work tasks and hazards faced in the various industries.

Regulation 10 of the Occupational Safety and Health (Notification of Accident, Dangerous Occurrence, Occupational Poisoning and Occupational Disease) Regulations 2004 requires employers to maintain records of all accidents, dangerous occurrences, occupational poisonings and occupational diseases.

Factories and Machinery (Amendment) Act 2006 and Occupational Safety and Health (Use and Standards of Exposure of Chemicals Hazardous to Health) Regulations 2000 requires the use of personal protective equipment (PPE) to reduce employee exposure to hazards when engineering and administrative controls are not feasible or effective in reducing these exposure to acceptable levels.

Hence this seminar will highlight all these 3 issues in ensuring compliance to Factories and Machinery (Amendment) Act 2006, managing workplace accidents and occupational diseases effectively and determine the right personal protective equipment to protect employees at the workplace.
